Ship's Presents the World Premiere of Any Given Moment

In this first ever collaboration between Ship's Company Theatre and Theatre New Brunswick, the companies combine forces to present the world premiere of Any Given Moment by Kim Parkhill.

This timely original script brings together three random strangers into a situation that could be ripped from the headlines of today. Lisa (Alexis Milligan) is an upper middle-class helicopter Mom; Emma (Claudia Gutierrez-Perez) is a twenty-something with a severe case of the existential crisis blues; and Bill (Wally MacKinnon) is an aging homeless man, from the sticks. Three strangers, separated by economic class, life experience and ideology, are thrown together by circumstance - or is it fate? - and forced into a shared experience punctuated by fear, conflict, and revelation. Set in present day, small-town Canada, where 'nothing happens' but in today's world, anything could. Parkhill's play is an excellent example of how big world news can strike close to home.

Any Given Moment stars Alexis Milligan, Wally MacKinnon and newcomer to the Ship and fresh off their theatre program at Dalhousie University, Claudia Gutierrez-Perez. MacKinnon is no stranger to Ship's company as some audiences might remember him from past shows such as The Net, Jacob's Wake, The Chairmaker and Miles From Home.

The playwright, Kim Parkhill, says, "I really tried to tap into the concerns of today for all generations and I think audiences of all ages will connect to these characters."

Artistic Producer and director of the play, Natasha MacLellan says, "I'm really excited to bring this original show to life with the help of Theatre New Brunswick. I'm hoping people relate to the fears and anxieties of these everyday people at the same time as enjoy the suspense and tension of the piece."

Ship's Company is a staple in the Atlantic Canadian performing arts community and is grateful for the support of the Canada Council of the Arts, Arts Nova Scotia, the Department of Canadian Heritage as well as their major corporate sponsors O'Regans and Archway Insurance.
