Masstown Community News

By Chris Urquhart

It seems like winter is trying its best to arrive here in Masstown. The winds have been cold and the birds are constantly at my feeders. There are many birds showing up; chickadees, bluejays, juncos, white throated sparrows, nuthatches, woodpeckers, mourning doves, grackles, starlings, gold finches, purple finches and even a male cardinal. If you feed the birds don't forget to put out suet this time of year, they really need all that fat to help them keep warm. If possible, a heated bird bath is also a gift to the birds; and to you as you watch them enjoying being able to get a drink in the cold.

Lots going on here in Masstown! First, get ready to head out for Breakfast With Santa! This will be held at the Masstown United Church on Saturday December 1st from 8 am until 10:30 am. Breakfast includes pancakes with sausage or bacon, coffee, tea or juice for only $6.00 for adults, and only $3.00 for children under 12. There will be a large bake table, a craft table, and grab bags for the children to buy. You can get your photo taken with Santa for only $1.00. Be sure to bring the children and those young at heart!

On Friday December 7th at 6pm there will be the annual Christmas Tree Lighting at the Park in Masstown. There will be a bon fire, hot chocolate, marshmallows to roast, carols to sing, the lighting of the Christmas tree and, with any luck, if he isn't too busy, Santa may stop by! Everyone is welcome to come out and get into the Christmas spirit! Be sure to dress warm, it may be a cold night. If it storms this will be held on Friday December 14th, same time, same place. Special thanks to Diane Robinson and Folly Mountain Christmas Trees & Wreaths for our Christmas tree at the Park.

The DGM Men's Club will hold their breakfast meeting at Breakfast With Santa on Sat. December 1st, 8am. All men welcome.

Masstown UCW will be holding their Christmas meeting and party on Thursday December 6th 6pm at the Church unless the school concert is being held that night and then they will hold it the day before on the Wednesday. All ladies welcome.

Scott and Brenda Trenholm were home from St. Catherine's Ontario visiting his mother Rosemary Baas, and kept their trailer at Jerry and Marina Fisher's during their stay. Susan Willett from Kamloops British Columbia was home visiting her mother Gail Hines as well as her sisters Sandra Allaby and Kathleen Purdy and her brother Chris Hines.

Condolences go out this month to Darlene Irving and family on the death of her mother Ellen Alexander and to Brenda McCray on the death of her friend, Barbara Jollymore.

Economy / Five Islands News

By Ruth Thompson and Brenda Moore

The Remembrance service at the Veterans Park was well attended. I was delighted to have laid a wreath for "The Friends of the Park. It was an honour to do this.

I visited my family in Lower Sackville on November 17th to 19th. My grandson had a hockey game which ended in a tie with the other team. He had a good time anyway. I also took my granddaughter shopping too. Weather was great.

The Christmas season is quickly coming up. It is my hope there will be peace and love at this time of the year.

Several years ago Remembrance Day service changed from the cenotaph in Five Islands to the Fire Hall. Since that time attendance has been increasing. This year approximately 150 people from the very young to the very senior gathered to recognize all that was sacrificed for Canada in the past; and to give thanks for those who serve in the armed forces today.

Legion Branches #45 and #72 along with Five Brigade members and Rev. Florence Antle-Brisson led the service and the laying of wreaths. Following that, the Seniors Club organized a luncheon which provided an opportunity for everyone to socialize.

The Fire Brigade, Ladies Bazaar and Peniel UCW each have a number of activities planned for November and December. As of presstime, the listings were unavailable to the Shoreline.
