

Parrsboro Nov 11 2025

The weather could not have been better for this years remembrance day ceremony. A great crowd turned out, the ceremony itself was both poignant and memorable when it was announced archives had turned up service members from WWI that perished and did not receive their honour on the cenotaph, but will. Current and past service members stepped forward for all the members past and present serving.

A great day of remembrance.

New Parrsboro Business - The Salty Spoon

223 Main Street, Parrsboro

On a fine sunny day a new and welcome business, the Salty Spoon had a DROP BY to meet the local citizens, and a chance to try their coffees and a delightful brownies. Lesley and David McQuaid are the owners, and I believe the Salty Spoon will be a hit judging by the crowd's reaction. Inside is well laid out and many old marine photos, many from this locality, cover the walls. I didn't get a formal date of opening, but David said they intend to be open all winter so a new year round business!
