Along the Shore 17% OVER 65

The Along the Shore Community Health Board covers the area of western Colchester County bounded by the shoreline of Cobequid Bay from Onslow to Five Islands and extends inland to include a number of small, rural communities.

The population of the Along the Shore area is 8,116 people, with 17% of those folks over the age of 65 years.

The area covered by the board has no urban centre and limited access to amenities including groceries, gas, high speed internet, health and emergency care services.

Emergency medical response is often delivered by way of local volunteer fire services prior to the arrival of paramedics in any given emergency.

Bass River has a medical centre with 1.5 doctors.

Many residents travel outside their communities to employment in Debert or Truro. Debert is home to a small industrial park and airport and also houses a long-term care facility.

Two large farms in the Great village area provide local employment, as well as relying heavily upon a migrant work force.

The Along the Shore area includes several recreational sites - ball fields, indoor rink (Debert), parks, outdoor rink (Five Islands), a number of community centres or halls, several churches, two grocery markets and several small convenience stores.

Students in the area are served by three elementary schools, a junior high school and a consolidated primary to grade 9 schools and three part-time, day 4 care facilities.

There is a significant seasonal cottage population along the shoreline.

Debert Legion Branch 106 hosts a Friday Night Supper each week and there is always entertainment on stage for your dining enjoyment. (Harrington Photo)

Volunteers donate their time each week at the Debert Legion Friday Night Suppers. Joy Reid was pleased to help out serving the delicious roast pork meal on Friday, Jan 27th. Roast beef will be served next Friday, followed by ham and potatoe scallop. (Harrington Photo)
