

Golden Age Auto Club Makes Final Charity Donation

By Jeff Goulding

The Golden Age Auto Club (GAAC) was founded in 1974 with the objectives of restoring and preserving antique classic and special interest automobiles.

Over the years, the club built up an annual car show and flea market, a 2 day event requiring many club volunteer which was held late May or early June. As with most clubs, we experienced a deduction in numbers of volunteers to the point we had to cancel the annual show. Being joint stock members, we were designated a not-for-profit organization meaning all car show proceeds were given to charity each year. Many local organizations were supported by these charitable donations and the Colchester SPCA will be our final recipient receiving the last donation the Golden Age Auto Club will make as it closes.

Thank your from the members of the Golden Age Auto Club for your support and participation over the years.

December 8, a donation in the amount of $600.00 was presented to Amber Lynds of the Colchester SPCA by Golden Age Auto Club representatives Sonny Green and Jeff Goulding on behalf of all the Golden Age Auto Club members.

of Canada's commitment to help Canadian businesses not just survive, but thrive, in the new global reality.

The new processing equipment will increase the distillery's production and packaging line from 72 cans per minute to over 250 cans per minute. As one of sixteen distilleries in Nova Scotia, Coldstream Clear Distillery currently has eight ready-to-drink products on the market.

The ready-to-drink product group is the fastest-growing category at the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission (NSLC), with sales increasing by 89% from June 2019 to June 2020. The NSLC reported $7.8 million in revenue from Nova Scotia ready-to-drink products in 2019.

The funding is provided through ACOA's Regional Economic Growth through Innovation (REGI) program, which helps businesses adopt innovative technologies that support scale-up, productivity, and competitiveness.
