

Crowds at all three craft sales were good. There was a lot of interest in adding last minute items leaving the vendors with a bit more pocket money for their own Christmas purchases.

The December 3rd craft sale at Fundy Geological Museum was one of three sales in Parrsboro this year. The other sales were November 19th at Parrsboro Elementary School and November 26th at the Legion.

The gymnasium at the Elementary School was the site of the November 26th annual craft sale.

The December 3rd craft sale at the Fundy Geological Museum drew a large crowd. The background in this photo contains a mural Lawrence Nicoll painted for the museum in 2010.

A Christmas Craft sale in Parrsboro would not be the same without Lawrence R Nicoll displaying his large variety of photographic products including his famous calendar, which is shipped to customers around the world.

Proposals on Policing Services

"As a former police officer I understand citizens are concerned and their need to feel safe. I also believe it is our responsibility as elected officials to listen and respond to those concerns," the mayor said.

Upon receiving the results of the public engagement report from Narrative Research, the committee met to consider its options, including maintaining the status quo with no changes, conducting a review of policing services with the current provider and issuing a request for proposals for policing services.

At the Dec. 14 public meeting of council, the decision was made to ask the police review committee to prepare the terms of reference for the RFP, which will come back to council for its review and approval.

Any final decision around the RFP and the future of policing in the Municipality of Cumberland will be decided by council.
