I often stop here with my husband on our way to New Brunswick from our home in Dartmouth," says Rachel LeBlanc. "We never go by without stopping, whether it is for an ice cream in summer or hot chowder in winter."

Jonathan Baha'i and son Neo, just moved to Debert in February, and they enjoy frequent visits to the Market. "It is close to home and the food is fresh, especially the produce," says Jonathan.

David and Helen Bishop stop by the Masstown Market Restaurant for lunch usually once or twice a week. "We have been buying local produce year round, for many years," says Helen.

Wanda Woolaver was checking out the gift shop to see what is new and unusual and says she loves stopping by the bakery, too. She thought the Fresh Fish Market was a nice addition to the Masstown Market.

Kathy Kirkby loves to grab lunch whenever she has time to stop on her way from Hubbards to Moncton, and says she can easily kill an hour just looking around.

Emma Chisholm was trying to convince her dad Robert to stop by the ice cream counter. They just moved to Onslow from Debert and are pleased to have a shorter drive to the Market, where Robert says they just enjoy shopping in general.

"We stop by at least a couple times a year on our way to Halifax from New Brunswick. It is nice to have an ice cream in the summer!"
Blanche Legere

"Everyone talks about this place, so I just had to stop by. I hadn't been here in years and it has all changed. I love the bakery."
Sharon Lane
