Clifton 4-H'ers Completing Projects

By David McCurdy

Clifton club members are working hard to complete projects. To complete each project, every member participates in meetings, public speaking (speech or demonstration), judging, record books and display or showing of their project.

Members sometimes feel frazzled because we are staring at our calendars wondering if livestock will be trained, and if the life skills projects and record books will be carefully finished in time for Achievement Day.

Over the next few months, you might see 4-H members packing to go to Camp Rankin in Cape Breton,livestock being trained for shows and the Clifton 4-H tug of war team practicing at the old ball field. Good luck to 4-H members with your projects – Enjoy your summer!

David McCurdy is reporter for the Clifton 4-H Club.
