

March Break Fun at Masstown Lighthouse

By Linda Harrington

Go up, go wayyyy up! How many stairs to the top floor of the Lighthouse? Calling all kids to stop by on March Break and enjoy fun times in the Lighthouse.

Check out the bubbling tank on the first floor, there are crustaceans hiding in those bubbles.

Catch of the Bay's fish monger Mike will be featuring a different seafood recipe each day for taste sampling.

On the second floor, be sure and put on one of the funny hats and snap your photo in the photo booth. You can email the photo home or post it on the Lighthouse facebook page.

Take time to read the interpretive panels on each floor and keep your eye open for fish trivia along the way. Challenge yourself to go all the way to the top and enjoy the panoramic view...can you see Folly Mountain, or the Bay of Fundy?

A video game with motion controller will be set up on one of the floors. Challenge your parents to a track & field event.

(Lawrence R Nicoll Photography)

Jan 24 - Before the cold broke, in Parrsboro inner harbour, I call this formation the 'Gooseneck', even the tides couldn't break the ice open it was so cold.

Feb. 3 - Even the Crows hunkered down in the falling snow this week

Jan. 31 - Light breaks through in Parrsboro Harbour at the height of the windstorm (had to shoot from inside car with snow/rain blowing throughout the car from the force of the wind)

Feb 2 - The windstorm may have subsided, but the ice cakes at Partridge Island show its force (Cape Split in the background)

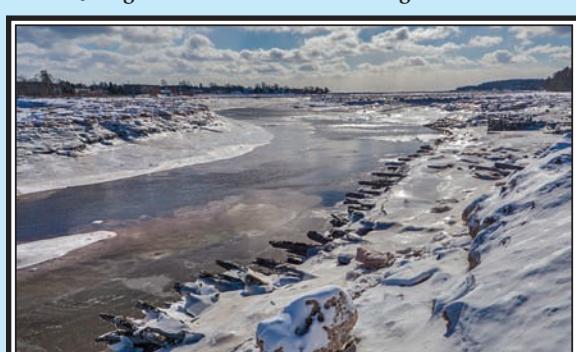

Jan. 31 - Ice fills Parrsboro Harbour during the windstorm

Feb 3 - again Fresh snow falls creating a wonderland

Feb. 1 - Storms rebuilds in the Bay of Fundy behind the Parrsboro Lighthouse

Feb 5 - The temp drops and the ice reforms
