

Prince Charming (Bob Slack) meets Hansel (Eric Barnhill) and Gretel (Chris Turner) in a twisted fairy tale skit by the Green Team.

Black Team mascot Little Red Riding Hood (Carol Eisner) looks a little lost on her way to grandmother's house.

Gold Team members Prince Shane Totten, Princess Ann Marie McCully, Footman Matt Priest and Step Mother Kathy Downing perform their team's Winter Carnival skit.

Prince Shane Totten and Cinderella Ann Marie McCully were mascots for the Gold Team.

Snow White had better stay away from the mirror mascot for the Red Team.

Jamie and Carrie MacKinnon were an awesome Hensel and Gretel for the Green Team mascot.

Casey Working to Retain Students

Bill Casey and the Saudi Arabian Ambassador believe there can be opportunities for more Saudi students to study in Atlantic Canada. Casey, the Member of Parliament for Cumberland-Colchester, and Ambassador Naif Bin Bandir Alsudairy met this week to discuss, among other things, the recent decision by Saudi Arabia not to fund scholarships for Saudi students attending Atlantic Canada universities.

The King Abdullah Scholarship is a generous program making it possible for Saudi students to study abroad in the world's best universities. Canada's universities are recognized around the world for their high quality undergraduate, graduate and professional education.

"I see opportunities to enhance relations between our two countries," says Mr. Casey. The Ambassador noted that Saudis who have studied in Canada make excellent albeit informal "ambassadors" for Canada when they return home. Almost 1,200 Saudis studied in Nova Scotia universities in 2015. Like all foreign students, they must obtain student visas and pay significantly higher tuition. The King Abdullah Scholarship program also provides a stipend directly to students for living expenses.

The two agreed to work together to help find ways of bringing more students to Atlantic Canada universities.

We can all dance somehow
(reach for the stars)

I once met a person
who loved the world of dance
from our first introduction
to her concentrated glance.

Her body spoke of gracefulness
yet her legs were toned and strong and she danced the dance of wonderment
floating right along.

When she pushed her body
up onto her tiny toes
it was as if her hands
had placed heaven's stars
each to where it goes

and as she reached again and again
to touch each one once more
she gave the gift
the gift of light
so each new star good soar!

God bless and thank-you. Thomas A. Marshall (ex-navy)
