

Grid Search for Lost Dog Held in Masstown

Close to 50 volunteers showed up Saturday, February 8th to help search for Annie, the boxer who went missing on Dec. 23rd in Masstown, NS. Despite exhaustive efforts by friends and family, there has been no confirmed sighting of Annie since she left her back yard while out playing with her sister Lola.

A grid search was organized to make sure no area had been missed. Although the volunteers did not find any sign of Annie, what was discovered was an overwhelming sense of compassion and community spirit for a family who has been missing their much-loved family pet. Most of the volunteers did not personally know Annie's family but they showed up to offer their support in droves, some driving a few hours to get here.

Annie's family greatly appreciated each and every one of the searchers for giving of their time. If anyone has any information about Annie, please phone April White at 902-890-5925. (Harrington Photos)

Volunteers warm up after searching for a few hours.

Over 50 volunteers headed into the surrounded woods and fields hoping for some sign of Annie, the lost boxer.

Kim Hillier signs in one of the searchers.

April White, the owner of Annie, thanked everyone for coming out to search saying the family has been overwhelmed by all the support they have received since Annie went missing.

Annie's sister Lola helped boost morale amongst the volunteers by sharing her love.
