

Council To Support Humboldt

The administrative staff will work with the solicitor how to prepare the $2,900 donation. The motion passed with Councillors Gregory, MacKenzie and Stewart opposing. The suggested motion will be brought forward to Council's meeting on April 26th for final approval.

There is a strong possibility the committee's motion may be discussed on the 26th and changes made to the final destination of the monies, yet still recognizing it's sympathy with Town of Humboldt. The Shoreline Journal has learned since the meeting of April 12th some county residents are voicing disapproval of sending the money outside the county.

Some residents, who made private donation are not against the compassion, but feel it's up to individuals to make such donation and it's not a prudent way for council to spend taxpayer dollars. It is understood more than one councillor has heard from residents, who feel Humboldt should still be recognized, but council could better use taxpayer dollars by keeping the money in the county.

One loyal Shoreline reader, from the Brookside area, who has several years media and communications experience congratulated council on its compassion, but suggested the money should remain in the area to better serve residents. Another reader from the Five Islands area expressed similar feelings stating, I've made a personal donation, and people with compassion have donated over $15-Million.

A third loyal Shoreline subscriber from outside De-bert said it's rough enough living in rural Nova Scotia and if there are tax dollars available council could still honour the players and residents in Humboldt, but help some of the community groups, or work on initiatives to help locals who are struggling and need services improved.

Council will probably not change its decision to allocate $2,900 to recognize Humboldt, but how the money is spent may change at council's meeting on April 26th.
