

Stand Up Against Bullying Day September 8TH

Chiganois Elementary Students wore their pink t-shirts with pride on Thursday, Sept. 8th.

RCMP Constable Jane MacDonald (centre) took a minute to pose for a photo with Chiganois Elementary Grade 4 students (front l to r)- Emma Donkin, Kayleigh MacKenzie, Mya Keizer, Nathan Meriam, Morgan MacPhee, (back l to r)- Kenleigh Burton, Hailey MacMillan and Robbie Styles prior to presenting a Stand Up Against Bullying Message to the whole school in the gymnasium.

The entire Great Village Elementary School students and staff formed a giant peace sign in front of the school in recognition of Stand Up Against Bullying Day on Sept. 8th.

Reganne Merrey points out the slogan "CCJHS thinks Pink" on the back of Drake Bruce. Students at CCJHS were encouraged to wear pink on Sept. 8th, and many students wore these school shirts to show their support of Stand Up Against Bullying Day.

Some of the younger Chiganois Elementary students get a little help putting on their pink "No Bullying Zone" t-shirts prior to the Stand Up Against Bullying Assembly.

Central Colchester Junior High Guidance Counsellor Jackie Chambers(left) assists students Brandon Fanklin, Teresa McCurdy, Marla McNutt and Matthew Cook (left to right) as they use computers to access an online anti-bullying survey at cyber-bullying.novascotia.ca.

Payton Pugsley, April Sharpe, Claire Carroll, Ava Gould and Cheyanne McLellan (left to right) fill in their "Messages for a PEACEFUL school year" postcards. Each Great Village Elementary School student filled in their own messages and the postcards were shared with other students.

Great Village Elementary School students Carly Fielding, Stephen Burnett and Brianna Griffiths were wearing pink clothing and enjoying a pink recess snack after completing their bright pink Peace Postcards. Pink is the color used to symbolize Stand Up Against Bullying Day, held on the second Thursday of September.

crrsb.ca

60 Lorne Street, Truro
Nova Scotia B2N 3K3
ph: (902) 897-8900
fax: (902) 897-8989

The Chignecto-Central Regional School Board supports Stand Up to Bullying Day and all students and staff who strive daily to foster safe and respectful learning environments.

