Loch Masstown Monster Perhaps?

By Linda Harrington

There is a new resident in Masstown, and "it" seems to be attracting a lot of attention lately.

Folk Artist John Ross, of Lower Harmony, delivered his latest creation to the Masstown Market in the wee hours of Sunday, Sept. 8th and it didn't take long for people to notice.

The ten foot high sea creature is bursting out of an eighteen foot dory. John Ross says he put over 40 hours into the project, which is made from pieces of recycled steel welded into place. The design is very colorful and detailed from teeth to fins, nothing was missed.

"The overturned boat has even been supported with a frame underneath. I know kids will love to sit up there and have their photo taken, so I wanted to make it safe for them. I asked my grandchildren for the input on what colors to paint it," he laughs.

Mr. Ross has made several pieces of art for the Lunenburg Folk Festival in the past and one of his pieces is also at the Dalhousie Faculty of Agriculture Rock Garden.

Masstown Market's Laurie Jennings was on hand for the delivery and was very pleased with the sea creature. "I had seen pictures but in real life it is even more impressive," he said. "I am sure kids will love to climb up there when we get this anchored in place."

The sea creature has been temporarily placed next to the Catch of the Bay Fish & Chip Boat.
