

Dawn MacKay, a volunteer with the Farm Equipment Museum located on the NSPE grounds off Ryland Avenue in Bible Hill, polishes some new acquisitions for the Museum.

Check out the line-up of tractors . You can trace the progression of farming in Nova Scotia throughout the years. Visit the Farm Equipment Museum. Check their facebook page.

A spot of tea after a long day , or a social with friends, a beautiful tea pot was a source of pride to the lady of the house in years gone by. Check out the different types, colours and shapes at the Farm Equipment Museum.

Tools, tools and more tools. Many people are interested in the types of different tools and marvel at how the quality of work was constructed , crafted without the use of modern technology . The tools pictured and so many others can be viewed at the Farm Equipment Museum located at the NSPE grounds off Ryland Avenue in Bible Hill.

At the Farm Equipment Museum you will see many chairs used in lifestyles of the past that are making a come back in the current farmhouse decorating trend. There are numerous examples including the famous Sibley chairs manufactured in Stewiacke in the 1800's.

In every corner of the country, families are worried about jobs, the health of our loved ones, and the public services that everyone counts on. The past 18 months have shown that Canadians can confront any challenge – when we have to, when we choose to, and when we come together. It's also shown us that thanks to the decisions of Liberal and Conservative governments, many of the supports that we rely on just aren't there when we need them. If we want different results, we need to make different choices.

What we need now is the courage to act together. And that is exactly what New Democrats offer to Canadians. Ready for Better is our vision for what we believe is possible. And it is our commitment to the real results that we're going to deliver for Canadians.
