

Wild Blueberry Festival - August 17 to September 2

Photos by Linda Harrington

The Wild Blueberry Harvest Festival Kickoff was held on Saturday, August 17th at Civic Square in Truro with the annual Pie Eating Contest as the main event. The Festival continues until September 2 with many local food and beverage establishments, festivals and venues featuring wild blueberries.
(Harrington Photos)

Ready for the Pie Eating Competition. Left to right: Truro Police Johnathan Galway, RCMP Constable Christine Clements, MIA Dave Ritcey, Town of Truro Councillor Jim Flemming, Earl Town Fire Dept- Mike Bodiuck, United Way Colchester & Cumberland- Sarah Flemming and RECC NS Stampeed- Julia Cameron.

Johnathon Galway did the Truro Police proud, without even getting much in his beard.

And they are off, who can eat the most in two minutes? Colchester Recreation Manager Craig Burgess encourages them.

Dave Ritcey and Jim Flemming gave it their best shot.

Your health records, now at your fingertips.

Get secure access to your health records and more with YourHealthNS.

- Obtain your Nova Scotia health records, like primary/virtual care, hospital visits, and medications
- Book blood collection, X-rays, or EKGs
- Check emergency department wait times
- Schedule vaccines
- Find healthcare services

Let us help you get the care you need.

Download the app or visit YourHealthNS.ca.

iOS

Android

